

GEORGE ELLIOTT THRASHES VALET

Marquis De Andigne Refused to Allow Hungry
Passenger To Pass.

CONDUCTOR AND CREW SHUT OUT

All Submitted Until Elliott
Fought His Way Through and Opened Up Passage, After Having Blacked the Valet's Eye and Handled Him.

SAVANNAH, GA., January 1.—Henri Lafinur, valet to Marquis de Andigne, arrived in Savannah to-day with a black eye, a cut cheek and a throat sore from the pressure of the hand of an American who objected to letting the marquis believe he owned a railway. Last week the marquis was married to a New England heiress, Miss Madeline Goddard, and they started for Palm Beach in the private car Olivette on their wedding journey.

At Richmond the Atlantic Coast Line flyer picked up a dining car, to that time had been the rear coach of the train.

Passengers in the forward cars soon began to listen for the "first call for dinner," but that summons did not come. Finally, somebody asked the conductor about it. He was not anxious to answer, but evasively, he said: "The Marquis de Andigne is in his private car between us and the diner, and he will let anybody go through, not even one of the train crew."

"Then we are to starve?" asked a passenger.

"No stop down the road in about an hour," said the conductor, "and then you can get off and walk back to the car. You can come back at the stop after that."

"Well, not if I know myself," said George Elliott, assistant general counsel of the railroad, who happened to be on the train. He walked back and found the door locked. To his knock the marquis's valet responded, and obdurately barred the way. He would not give in until Mr. Elliott had used considerable force. Returning to the other cars, the victor in the set-to announced that the way was open, and then the marquis and his valet had to sit and watch the vulgar throng pass through their private car to the diner at the rear.

HAPPY NEW YEAR WAS NOT FOR HER

Suicides by Choking Herself to Death With a Leather Belt.

NEW YORK, January 1.—Choked to death by her own hands, the body of Mrs. Elizabeth Richter, of Brooklyn, was found to-day by her stepson, Frederick Richter, Jr. She had taken a discarded leather belt and fastened it around her throat, and then slipped the end through the buckle, pulled and fastened it. A note in her handwriting, in which she was found, read as follows:

"Good-bye to you all. I hope you will all be happy when I am gone. My hand did this deadly deed. I am very lonely. The New Year contains no prospects for me."

Mrs. Richter was forty-eight years of age and lived with her husband, Frederick Richter, Sr., and three step-children. Her home life was happy, but recently her mind became affected through illness, and to this is attributed her suicide.

V. P. I. CADET SHOT DOWN CELEBRATING

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

BLACKSBURG, VA., January 1.—While engaged in a harmless New Year's celebration here about midnight last night, a second-year student of the Virginia Polytechnic Institute was shot by some one, presumably a member of another party that was out for the same purpose. The injured man was at once taken to the infirmary and given medical attention by the institute surgeon.

The latter does not regard the wound as present as serious. No arrests have been made so far, and it is not believed that there was any injury on the part of the person firing, the shot to injure any one.

FLIRTED WITH WIFE: HUSBAND KILLED HIM

EAST ST. LOUIS, ILL., January 1.—With one blow of his fist, Charles Smith to-night killed D. F. Myers on the street. Mrs. Smith told her husband that Myers had attempted to flirt with her. Smith struck Myers on the jaw, and Myers's neck was broken.

SUE SOUTHERN FOR INADEQUATE SERVICE

Citizens of Rocky Mount Very Bitter Because Alleged Wrongs
Were Not Redressed.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

ROCKY MOUNT, VA., January 1.—The Southern Railway, lessee of the Franklin and Pittsylvania branch, has failed, according to open complaint here, to put on adequate equipment to handle the passenger traffic, and it is of daily occurrence that passengers who have purchased tickets are not taken on at Glade Hill and other stations. The statistics of Virginia provide a penalty of $100 for each offense, and these claims for the last two days will amount to $1,000. Suits will be instituted at once. The Corporation Commission, though appealed to, has given no relief. The people are highly indignant at the condition of affairs, several women and children being kept away from their homes by the inability of the Southern Railway to transport them.

WILL CHOOSE BOWLES.

Election of Blues' Major Will Take Place To-Day.

The line officers of the Richmond Light Infantry Blues Battalion have been called to assemble this afternoon in the office of Colonel Sol Cutlins, in obedience to instructions, for the purpose of selecting a major to fill the vacancy caused by the recent resignation of Major L. L. Cheatwood. Six officers will participate in the election, the captains and the two lieutenants of each company. While the names of others have been mentioned in connection with the majorcy, it is a foregone conclusion that Captain E. W. Bowles, of Company A, will be chosen major. The officers are enthusiastic for him, and have never really considered any other member of the battalion.

VETERANS GRATEFUL.

Held Meeting Yesterday and Adopted Resolutions.

A meeting of the veterans in the Soldiers' Home was held yesterday to draw up some resolutions of thanks for the kindness and favors which have been showered upon them by those who had their birth in later years and under more pleasant skies.

The old soldiers seem very grateful for everything that is done for their comfort and pleasure, as is shown by the following resolutions which were adopted:

Be it resolved, That we most earnestly and sincerely tender our extreme feelings of gratitude to the daughters of the Confederacy and to the ladies of Richmond.

Resolved further, That we recognize all past entertainments as having been of the most refined character, and that we will appreciate all such entertainments in the future.

PEDDLING GUM.

Representative of Philadelphia
Concern Placed Under Arrest.

A. B. Wilson, who says he represents the McClellan Gum Factory, of Philadelphia, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Officer Bryant on the charge of peddling. The warrant reads that he had "unlawfully, sell barter and exchange chewing gum" against the peace and dignity of the Commonwealth.

Just when he was doing anything wrong, he was not made plain in the warrant. Wilson claims that he was only delivering packages of gum to the citizens, and that they could sell the gum if they wanted to. If he did sell it the money was to be sent back to the Philadelphia house. He did not say he was doing anything wrong.

The Retail Merchants' Association of the city is warring a war against peddlers, and several of the men who want to dispose of their wares without first securing a license have of late been made to pay heavy fines.

NEW YEAR'S WAS BALMY ONE

Remarkable Temperature and Dense Fog Accompany Advent of the Year.

OFFICIALS OBSERVE HOLIDAY

Business Slowly Resuming Its Normal Status—Brilliant
Social Features.

The year 1907 was opened yesterday with a day as balmy as in early spring. Indeed, the unseasonably mild weather produced the densest fog that has enshrouded the city for many years. The sun rose pale and scarcely visible through the haze of mist, and until nearly noon was as pale as a newly-born moon. But when once the glorious orb of day asserted its ascendancy, it reigned with genial warmth during the remainder of a remarkable day.

In the early morning, and indeed up to 10 A. M., the fog was so dense that the lights of approaching street cars could not be seen at a distance of thirty feet. Persons going to work had to stand close to the tracks until a car was almost upon them before they were certain that it was the one they desired to board, and in fact, only by the sound could it be known that a car was approaching. During the day the temperature was so mild that fires were dispensed with indoors, and overcoats and wraps in many cases discarded out of doors. Steam-heated buildings were oppressive, and in most of them the windows were raised to secure relief.

Officials Have Respite.

The day was a national, State and municipal holiday, the Federal building, State Capitol and City Hall offices being closed, with a practically complete suspension of business. Court clerks were required by law to be in their places, and some other officials seized the opportunity to do some accumulated work, free from interruptions.

Otherwise the day was dead officially. Thousands of people in all lines of business were still enjoying the holiday absence from work, and many who left the city at the vacation had not returned. The school children enjoyed their last day of immunity from restraint and study as fully as possible, and will to-day have to discard the engrossing themes of the last ten days and resume the daily routine of studies.

Work in the manufacturing plants was on a reduced scale, a large proportion of the employees not having returned to duty, and the output was consequently less than the normal.

In mercantile lines almost all businesses were being conducted, but there has been a marked decline, compared with the rush of Christmas. Merchants are now advertising remnants and odds and ends of stock at reduced prices as an inducement to purchasers.

Brilliant Social Phases.

The day was distinguished chiefly by its noteworthy social functions, there being many elegant receptions. The chief of these, of course, was that at the Governor's Mansion, where Governor and Mrs. Swanson received. The mansion never presented a more beautiful spectacle, and the day was considerably lessened as to adapt it peculiarly to such social functions, the entertainment was made the more enjoyable.

Several large private receptions were given, all of which were largely attended, and hundreds of small entertainments, signaling the advent of the year. Family reunions and special dinners were the rule.

The tide of holiday travel has turned homeward again, and thousands laden with bundles and baggage poured into the city from the country yesterday. Travel will be heavy again to-day, and after that normal conditions will have been resumed.

Schools Reopen To-Day.

With the reopening of the schools many changes will be made. The teachers formerly employed by the county in the suburban sections have contracted with the city and will be the remainder of the term. Children taken into the city will be entitled to attend the High School, and in the former county schools will be perfected, and such transfers of teachers made as will be required by the new grades. Arrangements to take care of the children of the city High School pupils is afforded by a property purchased by the city as a site for the new building. The total enrollment will naturally be increased.

HELD OPEN HOUSE.

New Year's Day Celebrated at the Y. M. C. A.

As is the usual custom the Y. M. C. A. had "open house" yesterday and last night. Nearly four hundred boys and girls were in the hall at 3 o'clock, and enjoyed a delightful hour of music and story-telling. Illustrated slides and hundred stereopticon pictures. Following this were two games of basketball and some special gymnastic stunts in the gymnasium, lasting until late in the afternoon. They all enjoyed it immensely.

A delightful program of music and recitations was given in the auditorium at 8:30 o'clock. Master Glenroy Stein, the boy violinist, opened the entertainment with two selections, well rendered. Glenroy is a wonder. He is only seven or eight years of age and plays seventy or more different selections. He always delights his audience.

Mrs. Frank W. Duke, accompanied by Miss Sims, rendered two delightful violin solos, "Kamennol-Ostrow," No. 22, by Rubenstein, and "Humoresque," by Dvorak.

Professor Frank Cosby, of the Richmond Conservatory of Music, gave several good selections.

Other numbers were: Mandolin solo, by Master Clifford Green, bone duets, by Masters J. H. Williams and J. H. Williams, assisted by Miss Daisy Galloppe, and a quintet from the Conservatory of Music.

The program was closed by a number of hymns or songs, interpreted by the illustrated stereopticon views.

Among the features for January will be a "mother's night" for the gymnasium and night school for boys and their mothers. Announcement of this will be made in the daily papers.

Light refreshments were served from 5 to 6 and from 8 to 11 o'clock by the following ladies of the women's committee: Mesdames S. K. McKee, chairman; R. C. Nelson, Thomas B. Johnson, Charles K. Willis, Eva R. Baker, W. S. Murray, J. J. Creer, W. Y. Rothwell, and C. P. Hight.

Misses A. M. Watkins and Grace McKee. It goes without saying that this part of the program was greatly enjoyed, for the ladies of the women's committee know how.

Next Sunday Dr. James A. B. Scherer, of Newberry College, S. C., will speak to them at the Academy of Music, and will lecture in the Y. M. C. A. Hall on Monday night being the fifth number of the star course.

For the first time this season both boys and girls are invited to attend the services next Sunday afternoon at 2:15.

RICHMOND ACTOR WEDS IN WORCESTER

RODGER BARKER.

WORCESTER, MASS., January 1.—Roger Barker, of Richmond, Va., now juvenile with the Lyric Theatre Company here, was married yesterday to Miss Jane Dore, formerly leading woman in his company. Miss Dore is the daughter of James Dore, of East One Hundred and Twenty-sixth Street, New York. He brought his bride here and made the announcement.

Roger Barker is well known in Richmond, where he played juvenile parts with A. Q. Scammon's Company in "The Sleeping City" and "The Widow Brown." Mr. Melville Daniels, of No. 701 East Franklin Street, remembers the young man, and says he is a finished actor.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., January 1.—Frederick McGann, white, was fatally shot on the street here last night by Samuel Knox, a negro. The negro was captured near the scene of the shooting. A large crowd gathered, and as the officers were taking the negro to police headquarters there were cries of "lynch him" but no violence was offered. McGann has since died.

MOTOR HITS ELECTRIC CAR; ONE KILLED, FOUR INJURED

OAKLAND, CAL., January 1.—In a collision to-day between an electric car and an automobile, George B. Young, of Alameda, was instantly killed and Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Martin, of Alameda, were injured. Mr. Young was a wealthy contractor.

QUARRELED WITH HUSBAND; COMMITTED SUICIDE

LOGAN, UTAH, January 1.—After a quarrel to-day her husband, a dentist, Mrs. G. E. Green took strychnine and died soon afterward. The Greens came here from Atlanta, Ga.

Shot Wife and Friend.

JOPLIN, MO., January 1.—At a boarding-house to-day F. W. Troy shot his wife through the head and breast and shot Ralph Quinn through the shoulder. Mrs. Troy probably will die. Quinn will recover, but may be captured and taken to Carthage for safe-keeping. He refused to discuss the shooting. Mrs. Troy is the daughter of Harrison Blizard, formerly of St. Joseph, but now of Omaha.

UNLAWFUL USE OF SECRET SERVICE

Charge Will Be Made Against
President When Congress
Convenes.

WASHINGTON, D. C., January 1.—The unlawful use of secret service men by the President is a charge which will be brought against him when Congress reconvenes and the Senate resumes consideration of the Foraker resolution, providing for a senatorial investigation of the negroes that the President violated the law in sending secret service agents to secure evidence in the Brownsville case.

So numerous were the complaints against the President last year for misuse of agents of the Secret Service Bureau that a provision was tacked to the appropriation for maintenance of the bureau that the agents were to be employed only in guarding the President and in detecting counterfeiters.

It is learned to-day that when the Senate again takes up the Foraker resolution the President will be subjected to more severe censures than any he has yet known, and it will all come from Republicans. But it should be borne in mind that it is not known certainly that agents of the secret service are or have been engaged in working out the Brownsville affair. It is pretty well understood, however, that such is the case.

ONE CHURCH ONLY RAISES SALARY

Resolution Adopted in Presbyterian Synod Called on All of Them.

METHODISTS PASSED SAME

Rev. G. H. McFaden Making His Influence Felt in the West End.

At the recent meeting of the Synod of Virginia one of the ruling elders introduced a resolution, which was adopted by the Synod, calling upon the churches in Richmond to raise the salaries of the ministers. This was done on account of the increased expense of living. Inquiry among the Presbyterian churches reveals the fact that in answer to the letter sent to the churches from the Synod, only one church in Richmond has as yet taken any action.

The Methodist Church, on Chestnut Hill, has raised the salary of its pastor, Dr. D. K. Walshaw, twenty-five per cent., to $1,000 a year. A similar resolution was introduced at the Methodist Conference at Portsmouth by Mr. John P. Branch, of this city. It has been impossible to find what response that action has met with among the Methodist churches of Richmond.

Rev. E. C. Lynch, of Buchanan, Va., preached at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday night, an excellent sermon from Psalm 137, on the sufficiency of the Scriptures to lead men to salvation. While in the city, spending a short vacation, Mr. Lynch is the guest of Mr. Irving L. Beveridge, on West Grace Street.

Rev. G. H. McFaden, pastor of the Ashbury Place Methodist Church, is making his influence felt in the West End. During the past month, twenty-two members have been received into the church, and larger number will soon unite. Dr. McFaden came to Richmond from Norfolk, and is a brother of Dr. F. I. McFaden, of the First Presbyterian Church of this city. A reception was tendered Dr. McFaden and his family at the church last night.

The congregation of the Manchester Presbyterian Church, of which Rev. J. J. Fix is pastor, is congratulating itself on the prospect of clearing the church of debt. The total indebtedness is $1,800. At a meeting held recently, provision was made for $1,000 of the debt, and also were taken which will cancel within the next year or a little over, the balance. This will be a great relief to the church and incentive for greater activity.

PICTURE TALKS AT UNION SEMINARY

Mr. Cameron Johnson, of Richmond, Will Deliver Series of Lectures There.

Mr. Cameron Johnson, of this city, who has spent fourteen years in educational and missionary work in the Far East, and who has brought back with him one of the finest and most varied assortments of colored photographs of China, Japan, Korea and India that have ever been shown in this country, will deliver a series of picture talks on those lands, their customs, costumes, industries and educational and religious life, in the chapel of Union Theological Seminary, on the evenings of Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Sunday and Monday, January 2d, 3d, 4th 6th and 7th, at 7:30 o'clock. The lectures are open to the public, and all who wish to enjoy these vivid and instructive lectures will be welcome, but it is requested that those friends from the city who attend them will make a point of being on hand at the beginning of the exercises, so as to assist the lecturer and the congregation after the address has begun, and the pictures are being thrown on the screen. The Lakoside cars leave First and Broad Streets on the even hours and at intervals of fifteen minutes. It takes twenty minutes for the run from Broad Street to the seminary.

A writer at Davidson College, where Mr. Johnson delivered these stereopticon lectures some weeks ago, speaks enthusiastically of the delightful impression made by them. The reporter says:

"His intense talks on these mission fields are just good enough, and when he supplements these by a long list of the most beautiful pictures, that show the country, the various scenes of country, town and people, the missionary homes and their inmates and all the things that concern the life of these Christian soldiers on the frontier, he offers a type of entertainment that even the most critical must say is unsurpassed in its varied excellencies. He is doing a great work in presenting in this visible and living form to this city, and abroad and giving to people of this country a vivid realization of what the laborers in the Master's vineyard are doing in the 'regions beyond.'"

Old St. Paul's Church Wants
Rev. James M. Owens.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

LYNCHBURG, VA., January 1.—Rev. James M. Owens, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church of this city, has been called to the rectorship of St. Paul's Church, Norfolk, to succeed Dr. Beverly Tucker, who is now the bishop-coadjutor of the southern diocese of Virginia. Mr. Owens has the call under consideration, and the meeting of the congregation will be held Wednesday evening to take some action relative to the matter. Mr. Owens has been rector of St. Paul's here for five years, and he is held in high esteem.

STOLE CLOTHING FROM DESTITUTE BLIND MAN

Charged with stealing food and clothing that had been provided by the Salvation Army to Mr. Charles Morgan, a blind Confederate veteran, Joseph Lovings of the Salvation Army, who claimed to have positive proof that the Lovings had stolen from the room occupied by the afflicted man.

The loving woman was on the verge of delirium tremens when she appeared in court. She could not talk for a long time, and whiskey had to be sent for to relieve her condition. With trembling hands she caught the bottle handed her and drank the contents.

In default of security the Lovings went to jail for ninety days.

WAS BIG DAY IN Y. M. C. A. SPORTS

Basketball Games and Other
Matches Played in Gymnasium
On New Year's Day.

The boys of the Young Men's Christian Association gymnasium class "did themselves proud" yesterday afternoon in their exhibition of exercises. The boys leaders' corps had charge of the entire affair, and their leadership of the squads in the apparatus work would have done credit to veterans. A double-bell drill, led by Sam. Padgett, opened the program, after which the class separated into exercises on the horse, parallel bars, rings, buck and horizontal bar. The following boys compose the leaders' corps:
Charles B. Brauer, Jr., Samuel Padgett,
Ramon A. Fisher, Linwood Cosby, Chas.
Montgomery, William T. Dabney and Bauer Cary.

the Mohawks, competing with the Pawnees. The Pawnees turned in tables on their opponents in the basketball game. The running high jump between the Sioux and Apaches was won by the latter; this tribe also won the basket-
